Policy:

Background

Library records, the primary purpose of which is to maintain control of library materials, or to gain access to information, that disclose or could be used to disclose the identity of a library user are exempt from disclosure under the Washington State Public Records Act.

LILD maintains library records in order to conduct operations of the Library. LILD is committed to protecting the confidentiality of its users or customers as it pertains to their use of library resources and materials.

General Policy

LILD upholds state and federal laws intended to protect the privacy of individuals as they pertain to the access and use of library resources and materials. Privacy is essential to free speech, free thought, and free association. Confidentiality extends to all records with identifying information about users or customers including, but not limited to: account registration records, requests for information and/or materials, material borrowing records, financial information, computer booking and use records, and/or online resource access and use records.

LILD will keep records pertaining to the use of library resources and materials private and confidential except as is necessary for proper operation of the Library, upon consent of the user, pursuant to a valid subpoena or court order, or as otherwise required by law. The library records of a minor child may be accessed by a parent or legal guardian.

While library records are confidential, Library facilities are public places, and people entering a library have no expectation of privacy beyond the content of library records. The LILD may enter into agreements with third-party providers in order to provide certain library- related services to our users or customers. Information that users or customers submit to a third party voluntarily is not subject to LILD control, and therefore LILD cannot guarantee the same level of confidentiality and privacy. Users or customers are encouraged to read and become familiar with the privacy policy of these third-party providers.

The LILD reserves the right to use personal information provided by users or customers for the purpose of conducting periodic surveys or providing information regarding library programs and services. This information may also be used by LILD partners such as Friends of the Lopez Island Library at the discretion of the Director. The District will not sell or provide access to personal information to other groups unless required by law.

LILD will make a good faith effort to implement this policy in a fair and consistent manner. The Director will establish administrative procedures necessary to implement this policy.
